

What's Next Marin?

Join a different kind of conversation

Many choices that affect our future, such as decisions about land use and transportation, are coordinated by local governments and agencies based on what they hear from the public. These organizations would be better prepared if they could hear from more of us. Some people think you have to “take sides” to participate but it doesn’t have to be that way.

What’s Next Marin? is inviting people who live and work in Marin to have a different kind of conversation: a dialogue where we learn from each other. Starting with some basic facts about the issues, you will have a chance to share your perspective with people from diverse backgrounds. Learn about major decisions coming up and ways to get involved.

- What will our transportation system be like?
- What kind of housing choices will I have?
- Will Marin be a place where I feel like I have a future?

Are you going to the Marin Equity Summit on November 10th? Attend one of these two sessions as one of the pre-summit activities. If you are not attending the summit, please join us too. We welcome your participation. Light refreshments will be provided.

Wednesday, November 9th
12:30 to 2:30pm
Marin City Public Library
164 Donahue Street
Marin City, CA

Wednesday, November 9th
6:00 to 8:00pm
Corte Madera Public Library
707 Meadowsweet Drive
Corte Madera, CA

What’s Next Marin? is a nonpartisan project partially sponsored by the Kettering Foundation. Local partners include Dominican University, the Community Development Agency of Marin County, MarinSpace, Common Knowledge and the Marin County Free Library. Questions? Contact info@ckgroup.org.